

position of the student parliament of the TUHH regarding der middle east conflict

The recent events in the Middle East conflict have left us all deeply moved and thoughtful. In this time of uncertainty and suffering, it is of utmost importance to express our solidarity with the civilian victims on both sides who are suffering from the effects of this conflict.

It is unacceptable that people, regardless of their origin or religion, become victims of violence and suffering. We strongly condemn all forms of human rights violations committed in the context of this conflict.

We would also like to make it clear that any form of discrimination is unacceptable. Anti-Semitism, like any other form of hatred and discrimination, must be firmly opposed and condemned. Solidarity with the victims of the conflict includes condemnation of all forms of hatred and violence.

Let us work together for a better future where peace, justice and respect for all people are paramount.

If you need help in dealing with the conflict, you can seek support from the TUHH's Central Student Advisory Service. If you are concerned about the conflict, talk about it and inform yourself, as long as you do not overstep your own boundaries.

Yours sincerely

The TUHH Student Parliament
